TT Centenary- 2007 Few sporting classics last 100 years and fewer still continue to attract global interest in the way the Isle of Man TT does. The Tourist Trophy originated as a car race in 1904 but has been the domain of motorcycles since 1907. It is widely regarded as the last of the great road races in motor sport, annually drawing thousands of dedicated fans to a gem of an island in the middle of the Irish Sea. Steeped in nostalgia and brimming with atmosphere, controversy and spine-chilling action, the magic of the oldest race on the international calendar is captured in a neatly-sized book packed with 120 monochrome and full colour images. TT Centenary goes right back to the original St John's Course and also includes images from the Clypse Course used for a short period in the 1950's. The awesome 37.7 mile Snaefell Mountain Course, which was the home of the British Motorcycle Grand Prix for four decades, remains the ultimate challenge to every discerning road racer.

The Ethics of Abortion-Christopher Kaczor 2010-10-04 Appealing to reason rather than religious belief, this book is the most comprehensive case against the choice of abortion yet published. The Ethics of Abortion critically evaluates all the major grounds for denying fetal personhood, including the views of those who defend not only abortion but also infanticide. It also provides several (non-theological) justifications for the conclusion that all human beings, including those in utero, should be respected as persons. This book also critiques the view that abortion is not wrong even if the human fetus is a person. The Ethics of Abortion examines hard cases for those who are prolife, such as abortion in cases of rape or in order to save the mother's life, as well as hard cases for defenders of abortion, such as sex selection abortion and the rationale for being "personally opposed" but publically supportive of abortion. It concludes with a discussion of whether artificial wombs might end the abortion debate. Answering the arguments of defenders of abortion, this book provides reasoned justification for the view that all intentional abortions are morally wrong and that doctors and nurses who object to abortion should not be forced to act against their consciences.

The Fables of Odo of Cheriton-John C Jacobs 1985-04-01 This is one of the first complete collections of medieval Latin fables to appear in modern English. Odo of Cheriton (c. 1185- c. 1247) wrote sophisticated fables, filled with great wit and humor, yet highly moral, even didactic, in keeping with the age in which he lived—one vigorous in religious, philosophic, scientific, and social debate and conflict. Jacobs' translation of the 117 fables makes them available to a new readership at a time when interest in fables, parables, and fairy tales is growing. In addition to the fables themselves, Jacobs has provided a substantial Introduction which discusses Odo of Cheriton's life and his 13th-century world. As the first comprehensive discussion of Odo's career and critical analysis of the fables, the Introduction will interest medievalists and a broad range of readers. Drawing upon modern critical techniques, Jacobs sheds new light on medieval narrative and modes of interpretation. He also shows how the moralizing commentaries attached to representative fables are integral to the fables' narrative art. The text is illustrated with seventeen exceptional sketches taken from the album of Villard de Honnecourt— a near contemporary of Odo. These drawings have a fluid vitality which perfectly complements the delightful narratives.
